

Star Gazers

by Heidi Bee Roemer

Astronomers question.

They truly delight in the jaw dropping, mind-boggling facts that they find in the Milky Way's size as it swirls in space,

mysterious black holes,
and the moon's cratered face.

Astronomers study
the black pitch of sky.
Probing asteroids and planets, they ask “How?” and “Why?”

With powerful scopes, they see wonders afar—
the streak of a comet, the birth of a star.
