

Heads and Tails Match-Up

by Heidi Bee Roemer

Beaver's tail is broad and flat.

It warns of danger with a splat!

Giraffe chews leaves while she applies her tail to swish away the flies.

This tail is useful in a storm;

Arctic fox stays snug and warm.

An extra-handy tail has he--

Monkey swings from tree to tree.

You may doubt and you may scoff--
the gecko's tail can fall right off!

Skunk's tail signals "Keep away!"
or he'll release a stinky spray.

Peacock courts a shy female.

He flaunts his dazzling feathered tail.
